James Anderson is a former school leader who is Australia's foremost expert in Growth Mindsets.

He understands the pressures teachers face and supports them to integrate strategies and pedagogies into their daily practice, so they achieve better student learning outcomes and long-term change.

The term Growth Mindset has become a bit of a "buzzword". It's everywhere: on social media, on our classroom walls. It's the latest classroom initiative.

Many teachers are asking, "Is it worth it?" "Does it make a difference?"

Yes, it does – but we need to move beyond simply believing in growth to learning how to achieve that growth.

I've found that teachers can create real positive change with Growth Mindsets. The key is to understand that a Growth Mindset is just an invitation to grow. We also must teach our students how to grow. To do that, we need to move away from social media catchphrases, nurturing students' Mindsets and teach them the actions they need to take to achieve real growth.

How do we do that?

We become teachers with the skills to make a real difference to students' Mindsets, growth and learning outcomes. We become Mindset Movers.

Becoming a Mindset Mover is like being a multiplier for Learner Agency.

It helps students become better learners, quicker.

In this Workshop, I will show you how you can become a Mindset Mover in your classroom.

I have developed a toolkit of over 50 practical strategies that will help you not only move your students towards a Growth Mindset, but also show them how to turn that Mindset into real growth and improved outcomes.
